

2017 Volunteer Recognition Dinner
President's Award Honoree

Michael Low MPA '80

Michael Low credits his USC degree for initiating and propelling his career as an executive and consultant for healthcare organizations. He focuses on strategy, business and corporate development with private and publicly traded healthcare enterprises, and major nonprofit organizations in the United States and abroad.

The epitome of a devoted Trojan, Low currently represents his alma mater, the USC Price School of Public Policy, on the USC Alumni Association Board of Governors. He also serves on the USC Price School's Master of Public Health Administration Health Advisory Board, and is a current member of the Athenian Society, the Price School's premier philanthropic support group. A past president of the USC Price Alumni Association, Low was an ex-officio member of the school's Board of Councilors.

Mentoring students is another passion for Low, who works closely with Price students and Society 53, the governing board of the USC Alumni Association's Student Alumni Society. Low also gives freely of his time and energy to a number of student organizations, including the Asian Pacific Islander Caucus, the Graduate Policy Administration Community and the Student Health Council.

Outside of USC, Low serves on the San Pedro & Peninsula YMCA Board of Managers.

Low and his wife, Joanna, have two children, Ryan and Katie.
